You are an adventurer traveling from sea to sea, taking care of people. But the country had been at war over a century, and the war between the factions has reached a stalemate, with people still dying. You are in war. War is everywhere. You are protecting people, stealing food, helping people, and killing people. But war isn't what it seems. What people call a killer is actually a defender, and what people call a thief is actually a hero. It's this blurred line that gives the player a lot of room for them to make a difference. The game is set in the Middle Ages. In this fictional world, the population is around 10 million. Your character is a king killer. This is something you will learn to do. You must help other people in order to survive. This is the rule of law. This is the rule of life. The game is set in a medieval society, where death is everywhere. People are by far the most important thing on the planet. Everything is centered around that. How to use? There are three people on the stage of the story – the protagonist, the villain, and you, the player. There is one single "adventure" that the player takes on. This one single journey is the story of the protagonist, which takes place through the other two people's point of view. The protagonist has a lot of freedom in this story. You can take part in all events, do everything that you are allowed to do, and still not be able to finish the adventure. The story is completely up to you. Game elements: There are a lot of elements to this story, and some of them you can't see or touch. It's a story of hope, survival, adventure, and guilt. Story: The story can be described as a 5th act of a rom-com. As a player, you're the 5th act of the story. This story follows the protagonist. The protagonist is an adventurer and a king killer. His goal is to become the true king and to protect the people from war. Together with a villain and a hero, he will travel through the story. Together with the villain and the New version is available: SpellKeeper 3, comes with all updates and many fixes! Enjoy! When the version 1.0.2.1 is released it will only consist of one file. New version 0.x: Other versions:Website Design What's a website supposed to do for your business? First impressions count in business and nearly everyone is on Google! There's over 500 hours of videos on YouTube about best practices, which are all over the web, too. Google is as familiar as breathing. I could be preaching to the choir because all of this is common knowledge, but I'd like to add another layer on top of that which is properly thought out website design. How are you doing with UX and user flows? I think that people can successfully design a website themselves, but it is just not the easiest task to do. The expectations and when "it takes only 10 minutes to get a beautiful website" have created an unrealistic expectation of what a website is supposed to look like. Designing a website is much more complicated than that and really requires strong planning and communication from a designer and developer so that a decision is made about what is critical for the business.
