Q: Which.NET version can be installed on 64 bit windows operating system? I know 4.5 is new version, but I am not sure about which version is compatible with 64 bit. A: 32-bit Windows Store apps can only be installed on 32-bit Windows versions. Only 64-bit Windows Store apps can be installed on 64-bit Windows versions, and only with additional steps. If you wish to be able to install 64-bit Windows Store apps, you will need to install a higher version of Windows: The Windows 8.1 update from the 'Build Key' of the Windows 10 Technical Preview included the 'x86' and 'x64' group on it's download page. Use the 'x86' group as it includes 32-bit Windows 8.1. If you are unable to upgrade to the Windows 10 Technical Preview, or you want to install 64-bit Windows 8.1, you will need to download the 'x64' group. The Windows 7 SP1 update included the 'x86' and 'x64' groups. Use the 'x64' group as it includes 64-bit Windows 7. A: I had a similar problem a while ago. There are a couple of ways to resolve it. The most direct is to install the

Percy "PJ" Holladay is planning to open a medical-marijuana dispensary in the St. Louis suburb of South County, along with a bakery and barbecue restaurant. He's the businessman who founded the nonprofit Missouri Compassionate Care Foundation to operate the business, which will open under a state law approved last year. "My number one goal is to give people with medical needs a way to avail themselves of a more natural way of getting their medication, and I believe that what we have been able to show so far in the first year is that we're the only dispensary serving only natural remedies that is not linked with any sort of gang or drug activity, and has quality control mechanisms in place to make sure that the products are safe and that they are not contaminated with any type of contaminants or any type of harm to the customer," he says. Holladay wants to position the business not as a place to get high, but as a safe and reliable alternative to synthetic drugs and prescription medications. The company will be selling marijuana and marijuana-infused products such as food and herbal tea, in addition to marijuana products that might be prescribed to people with serious medical conditions. He says the products are completely legal in Missouri. It's a risky proposition. Last August, a federal judge in Washington issued a preliminary injunction against eight other medical-marijuana dispensaries across the state. It's not yet clear if those dispensaries will continue to operate pending the appeals process. "These people came into the business area of business and they destroyed thousands of dollars worth of equipment, they damaged two homes, they vandalized some of the properties, they broke into one of the pharmacies and smashed the front door, and they threatened employees, employees of the company," Holladay said. "So these people are not law abiding citizens. They're the most
